

What is PROFIL hp?

PROFIL hp is a specific scientific instrument of psychological evaluation to analyse the self-image. PROFIL hp enables one to form personal and professional personality profiles.

PROFIL hp allows positioning of an individual within a team, within a professional environment as well as in every day life. The instrument is particularly suited for

- the development of individual and team potentials
- the creation of high performance teams
- career development.

The specific characters of PROFIL hp are

- exploring, from a single unique test, a psychological analysis based on one's needs (professional personality, within-group behaviour, psychological personality)
- detecting any high probability of random-based responses and questionnaires filled too quickly or without attention
- suspecting built images or false personalities likely to be generated during selection practices.

Completing the test takes approx. 20 to 30 minutes. The Center PROFIL hp will be pleased to give you any further information.

The English part of this website is under construction. Detailed information about the test method, contents and procedure will be added soon. Full information about PROFIL hp are presently available in German and in French.
